

For release: 18 May 2012

CNN MULTICHOICE AFRICAN JOURNALIST 2012 FINALISTS ANNOUNCED

Finalists in the prestigious CNN MultiChoice African Journalist 2012 Competition were announced today by Ferial Haffajee, Chair of the independent judging panel. The competition is now in its 17th year.

This year the competition received entries from 42 countries across the continent, including French and Portuguese speaking Africa.

There are 34 finalists from 12 countries:

- Tunde Akingbade, Freelance, The Guardian on Sunday, Nigeria
- Joshua Anny, Joy FM, Ghana
- Manar Attiya, Ahram Hebdo, Egypt
- Adriaan Basson & Piet Rampedi, City Press, South Africa
- Najlae Benmbarek, 2M TV, Maroc
- Demelza Bush, Craig McKune & Verashni Pillay, Mail & Guardian Online, South Africa
- Ramusel Graça, Televisão Santomense, São Tomé e Príncipe
- Arsénio Henriques, Soico - STV, Moçambique
- Edward Echwalu, Freelance for The Observer, Uganda
- Teresa Sofia Fortes, A Semana, Cabo Verde
- Isabel João, Novo Jornal, Angola
- Ahaoma Kanu, National Daily Newspaper, Nigeria
- Tom Mboya & Evanson Nyaga, Citizen TV, Kenya
- Andrew Mulenga, The Post Newspaper, Zambia
- Nimrod Taabu Mwagamoyo & Charles Kinyua Kariuki, NTV, Kenya
- Waihiga Mwaura & Jephitha Mwai Mwangi, Citizen TV, Kenya
- John Muchangi Njiru, The Star, Kenya
- Peter Nkanga, Elor Nkereuwem, Musikilu Mojeed & Idris Akinbajo, NEXT on Sunday, Nigeria
- Antoine de Ras, The Star, South Africa
- Megan Small & Clive Mtshali, 3rd Degree, e.tv, South Africa
- Stephen Ssenkaaba, New Vision, Uganda
- Joy Summers, Carte Blanche, South Africa
- Gerald Tenywa, Saturday Vision, Uganda
- Nelson Wesonga, Daily Monitor, Uganda

The winners of the competition will be announced at an Award Ceremony and Gala Evening in Lusaka, Zambia on Saturday 21 July, 2012.

The hosts for the evening will be Isha Sesay, host of CNN International's NewsCenter and Franklin Tembo Jnr, ZNBC presenter.

Announcing the finalists, Ferial Haffajee said: "The growing quality of the entries we pored over is a reflection of a growing continent claiming its place in the sun. We were impressed by the enhanced quality and competitiveness of the work before us; by the heart and soul poured onto pages and into pixels; by the adventurist spirit of the entries which came from more countries than ever before. In print, in radio, in television it is clear that African journalism is in a growth spurt, claiming its stake as world-class and globally competitive. A bit like our continent."

The independent judging panel, chaired by Ferial Haffajee, Editor-in-Chief, City Press, South Africa includes: Ikechukwu Amaechi, Editor, Daily Independent, Nigeria; Amadou Mahtar Ba, CEO, African Media Initiative; Jean-Paul G rouard, Editor-in-Chief, France T l visions; Joel Kibazo, journalist and media consultant; Arlindo Lopes, General Manager, Regulatory & Corporate, Angola and Mozambique, MultiChoice Africa Ltd; Zipporah Musau, former Managing Editor, Magazines, The Standard Group Ltd, Kenya; Kim Norgaard, CNN Bureau Chief, South Africa. Bruno Manteigas, UK Correspondent, Ag ncia Lusa assisted in the judging of the Portuguese General News Category.

Freelance journalist Paul McNally assisted the judging panel and carried out the first round of pre-selection, removing the entries that didn't meet the required journalistic standards to be put forward to the judging panel for the next stage of judging. Paul was the winner of the Health and Medical Category at the 2009 CNN MultiChoice African Journalist Awards, and a runner-up in the HIV / AIDS Reporting category of the same year.

This year the competition welcomes Nokia on board to sponsor the Digital Journalism Award, joining a list of sponsors who continue to lend their valuable support to the awards: African Development Bank (AfDB); The Coca-Cola Company; Ecobank; Ericsson; IPP Media, Tanzania; Merck Sharp & Dohme (MSD), UNICEF and A24 Media.

An all expenses paid five day programme of workshops, media forums, networking has been set up for the finalists during the run up to the award ceremony on 21 July 2012

Tony Maddox, Executive Vice-President and Managing Director of CNN International said: “This year has seen a record number of entries for the CNN MultiChoice African Journalist Awards from a diverse array of countries across the continent. The quality and excellence of the work submitted continues to rise year on year, ensuring that the 2012 competition maintains its place as the most prestigious Pan African Awards for journalists”.

Nico Meyer, CEO of MultiChoice Africa, said: “The CNN MultiChoice African Journalist Awards are an investment we truly believe in, as journalists are one of the cornerstones of a nation. We need to continue to recognise them as they tell real stories that reflect the fabric of our diverse societies. The standard of entries continues to grow and the quality of submissions is testimony to the great levels of talent our continent holds. We are honoured once again to be a part of these awards which contribute immensely in shaping freedom of speech and a healthy and vibrant media.”

Collins Khumalo, CEO of MultiChoice South Africa, said: “It is very important to us to help Africa not only find its voice but also to make that voice heard around the world. The CNN MultiChoice African Journalist Awards gives a voice to journalists across the continent. We look forward to celebrating their stories and achievements.”

Note to Editors: Competition Criteria

To enter the CNN MultiChoice African Journalist 2012 competition the journalist must have been an African national and have worked on the continent for African owned, or headquartered, media organisations that produced a printed publication or broadcast through an electronic medium (television broadcaster, radio station or website) primarily targeted at and received by an African audience.

Entries were published or broadcast in 2011 for the following awards:

Arts & Culture: Digital Journalism Award; The Coca-Cola Company Economics and Business Award; Environment: Free Press Africa; HIV/AIDS Reporting; MSD Health & Medical: Mohamed Amin Photographic; Print General News; Radio General News; Sport; Television Features; Television News Bulletin; Tourism; Francophone General News Awards (Print and Electronic Media); Portuguese Language General News

Website: www.cnn.com/africanawards

Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/#!/CNNMultichoiceAfricanJournalistOfTheYearAwards>

Twitter: @africanjourno

Issued: 18 May 2012

For further information please contact:

CNN International: Joel Brown + 44 20 7693 0967 joel.brown@turner.com

MultiChoice Africa: Odette Bagley +27 11 289 3400 obagley@multichoice@multichoice.co.za

MultiChoice South Africa: Marietjie Groenewald + 27 11 289 3067 Marietjie.Groenewald@multichoice.co.za